West Liberty Post Office is now open to customers for business

By Miranda M. Cantrell
The newly-renovated West Liberty Post Office opened for business on Monday, June 4, for the first time since the March 2 tornado caused significant damage to the building.

Postmaster David Petrey said that the facility sustained roof, ceiling and water damage in addition to blown out windows and doors.

"All of the damage has been repaired," Petrey said. "Everything has also been painted. The building actually looks better than before."

Postal employees were headquartered after the tornado at the Campton post office, where all local mail was sorted as customer services were rendered from a temporary unit outside the West Liberty IGA.

"I knew after the tornado that customers would need a convenient location," Petrey said. "The trailer at IGA was always very busy, with clerks sometimes doing several thousands of dollars worth of business in a day's time. We have also seen many customers since we moved back to our downtown location."

Petrey noted that the post office will continue to offer a full range of USPS products and services.

"Everything will be the same as before," Petrey said. "We are so glad to be back, and it seems the public is also very grateful. I would like to thank the community for its support and patience over the past three months."

For more information about postal services and products, call 743-4380. Post office hours are 8 a.m.-4 p.m. Monday-Friday, and 9 a.m.-12 p.m. Saturday.

Paul Gilley Day to be observed on Saturday, June 9, in Maytown

West Liberty, KY — Judge Executive Tim Conley announced that Paul Gilley Day in Morgan County is scheduled for 11 a.m. Saturday, June 9, at Maytown.

A big day of entertainment is planned, including special music by Bob Johnson and his Nashville Sound Band, Andrea Trusty, Bill Trusty, Joanna Oldfield, Mike Havens and Blue Mountain Grass, Gary Ball's More Than Country Band, Wells Family, Jessie Wells, Randy Maloney, The Lawson Family Reunion, and many, many more.

Come hear the renditions of the late Paul Gilley songs made famous by legendary artist. Gilley wrote some of the greatest of all country songs, but received little to no credit for the most of them, including "I'm So Lonesome I Could Cry," "Cold, Cold, Heart," "Your Cheatin' Heart" and many others.

"Paul Gilley was a giant in his own figuratively and literally," Event Chairman/Magistrate Frankie Spencer said. "He is now getting the credit that he so deserves as one of the greatest songwriting minds country music has ever had. His life has been like a country music song in itself, one of the greatest country music stories never told, until now."

Admission is FREE, so bring your lawn chairs, and bring the family.

"It's an honor to recognize the talented Morgan Countian, Paul Gilley for his accomplishments," Judge Conley said. "We are excited to bring a fun filled day to Morgan County. I hope everyone plans on attending."

Festivities will begin at 11 a.m., and musicians will be taking the stage at 11:30 a.m.

Regional community foundation to assist disaster-stricken merchants

Found. for Appalachian Kentucky working with Gateway ADD

By Miranda M. Cantrell
Local entrepreneurs seeking financial assistance to restore their establishments may soon find aid via a non-profit organization committed to the economic development of Eastern Kentucky.

The Foundation for Appalachian Kentucky (FAKY), a Perry County-based coalition, has established a tornado relief fund for the disaster-stricken counties of Morgan, Magoffin, Menifee and Laurel to meet the needs of displaced business owners.

FAKY Director Gerry Roll said that the group is currently assessing business needs to determine the best use for approximately $200,000 in private donations.

"We are reaching out to all communities affected by the tornadoes," Roll said. "This is our first disaster situation. There are many 'mom and pop' business owners who lost their livelihoods to the tornadoes, and we want to help them however we possibly can."

Roll noted that FAKY seeks to support immediate and long-term tornado recovery efforts in collaboration with community action agencies serving the historically depressed region.

"The Gateway, Big Sandy and Daniel Boone agencies are working with us to determine specific needs," Roll said. "We are talking with business owners to learn how we can help them the most during this chaotic time."

Gateway Area Development District (ADD) Executive Director Gail Wright said that several Morgan County entrepreneurs, officials and commerce leaders have attended recent business recovery meetings in Morehead.

"We found out soon after the tornado that government funding is not the answer," Wright said. "So we are trying to raise funds via private donations. Many of these business owners were already struggling, and this tragedy makes their situations even more difficult."

Wright noted that Gateway ADD officials designated a tornado relief fund for Morgan County in hopes of securing matching donations from FAKY.

"Our goal is to help West Liberty's businesses come back," Wright said. "Getting started will be hard, but we want to help all of Morgan County's businesses."

Commercial Bank CEO Hank Allen — who has attended business recovery meetings — said that the program could prove beneficial to small busi-

"Obviously the small businesses damaged by the tornado are in a lot of need," Allen said. "It seems this program is a great effort to accommodate the owners of 'mom and pop' establishments. They definitely need all the help they can get."

Roll said FAKY is committed to assisting small businesses at the regional level.

"We care very deeply about everyone in Eastern Kentucky," Roll said. "Everyone must pull

Morgan County Long-Term Recovery Update

Many areas within West Liberty have seen cleanup and debris removal. Most have already been cleaned of the small debris that volunteers are able to remove by themselves.

Debris pickup by the city and county could soon come to an end. This will make things more difficult and expensive for all those yet to deal with this part of the recovery.

For those in the county that still have need of volunteers to help with debris in fields, there is still help available. Unfortunately, the equipment necessary to assist in the pickup and gathering is unavailable.

Several teams, while they have the will and have given of their time, lack the leadership and knowledge to safely get started with the salvage of barns and farm structures in the area.

Volunteers are here to assist you in your recovery, but they need your involvement. They need your experience and your help with equipment. You probably can use their help too. No one is here to do the work of recovery for you, but they are here to assist you.

Volunteers are a valuable resource to take advantage of. But they cannot work without the landowner's permission and sometimes involvement as well.

If you are interested in joining our group, or if you have needs that have not been resolved by insurance companies and FEMA, you can contact us at: Morgan County Long Term Recovery Team, P. O. Box 371, West Liberty, KY 41472. Our telephone number is (606) 496-8756.

TORNADO SURVIVORS' CORNER

What's luck got to do with it?

By Linda Oakley
If you had happened by what was left of Novella and Jamie Fannin's house shortly after the tornado and someone told you that the lady who had been inside survived, you may have said, "Wow, she was lucky!" But Novella will tell you differently, plain and simple, that luck had nothing to do with it. It was God, and He was there with her. When the tornado was dragging her across the floor, she held fast to God's hand and prayed.

Novella, Jamie and their 11-year-old daughter, Jade, lived on Prestonsburg Street across from the Licking Valley Courier office.

Novella was at home alone that evening, in part because of the first tornado that had set down in Morgan County a couple of days earlier. Wednesday's storm had caused problems in the computer system at Bank of the Mountains, where she worked and she had spent most of Thursday trying to fix it.

Bank employees had monitored the progression of Friday's storm and knew severe weather was on its way once again. Novella's supervisor told her to come back in that evening after the storm to check on any outages that may once again effect the computer system.

Jamie and Jade went to Jamie's sister's house for supper and. Though Novella usually as well, this time she stayed at home so she could go back to the bank after the storm.

Novella's husband and daughter left around 5:30 p.m., and she settled in to watch and keep track of the weather on WLEX. At one point, the announcer told viewers in the Ezel area to take cover. What were the chances that a tornado would set down in Morgan County twice in three days?

Novella went outside and looked up at the sky but for some reason did not look toward the hospital. It was not until she received a Code Red phone call that she felt she might need to take cover. Even then, she was not alarmed as she calmly went to the electrical box and flipped the breaker and then turned off the gas heater. As an extra precaution she drug her heavy dining table to an area where three walls converged, and stood it up against the wall to give added protection.

When the electric went out she grabbed a bag that had the deed to their house, birth certificates, etc., her purse, cell phone and a flashlight. She then went to the area where she had propped the table against the wall and got into the closet.

She felt the wind first, and a strong vibration. There was a build up of pressure so heavy that Novella said she will never forget it. As the vortex of the storm enveloped her house, she did not hear the sound of a freight train as most people say they hear. She was not on the edge of the swirling abyss, but in it's belly, and she heard a loud version of the noise that one hears when blowing across the top of an Ale-8 bottle. She felt herself being lifted off the ground so she grabbed hold of the door facing on the closet. The fury of the storm engulfed her and the tug-of-war between the tornado and the heavenly hand she held began.

Something hit her hard in the back and she was dragged across the floor, at which point part of the house collapsed.

"There was a 5 or 6 second pause," Novella said. "And I screamed. I screamed bloody murder."

Once again the wind came, she looked into complete darkness and smelled the odors of insulation and debris. The storm dragged her to where her bedroom had been and the rest of the house fell on top of her. What, in real time, was only a few seconds had seemed like an eternity.

As the fury of the storm passed over, the deafening hum of the tornado was quieted, but there was other noise now. Novella could hear the alarm going off at Commercial Bank and the sounds of people as they emerged onto the streets. She was on her stomach but if she turned her head, she could see sky.

Novella let her body collapse down and found a space large enough for her to move a little bit. There was a hole big enough to see out of, and she saw Mike Lacey coming down Prestonsburg Street. She yelled his name and he stopped to look around but did not know where the voice was coming from.

After long minutes of fighting to find a way free of her prison, Novella was finally able to kick through part of a wall.

Neighbor Earl Kinner's grandson, Channing Kinner, and Channing's cousin, Brandon Howell, saw Novella and came to pull her out. She was having trouble breathing and was covered in blood, but her first thought was for Mr. Kinner and his fate. They told her that he had been rescued from his demolished home and was safe.

Novella turned her attention to finding some shoes. Broken glass was everywhere and it was getting in her feet. Electrical lines down in front of her house blocked her from leaving her yard. An unknown man pulled her over the concrete wall by the gas station and she started up Main Street from there.

She had been calm until then but as she made her way through the terrible scene, she became a quivering mess and was hyperventilating. All she wanted at that moment was to see her husband and daughter.

She saw her car, that had been parked at her home, was now on Main Street. Picking her way through the maze of debris, she ran into a nurse who helped her to the City Hall basement. There she found many that she knew, including some of her fellow church friends. They came together and prayed.

The Chinese couple, who had recently moved here, were there and Novella remembers feeling so sorry for them. They were new to West Liberty and spoke very little English. The restaurant that they had just taken over was demolished and she knew they must be frightened. Novella sat down in the middle of everyone, where she would be seen by a lot of people. She knew that when Jamie came looking for her he would think the worst when he saw their house. She wanted someone to be able to say that they saw her safe in the event they encountered her husband.

In fact, Jamie had parked his car at Giovanni's and ran into town. He first saw the car and feared that Novella had been in it trying to outrun the storm. Then he saw the house.

No one can describe the dread that a person feels when confronted with the prospect that a loved one is at the bottom of a broken and twisted pile. An awful sensation creeps up the back of your spine and you don't want to find what might be there but you start to dig.

Jamie frantically began his search, but a police officer stopped him.

"She's okay," the police officer told Jamie.

"Are you lying to me?" Jamie yelled, thinking they just didn't want anyone sifting through the rubble. "ARE YOU LYING TO ME?!"

The officer told him he wasn't lying and that he had seen her at City Hall. He took Jamie to her. Novella said that he was so happy to see her that he even hugged the cop.

Novella's cousin, Dwayne Nickell, drove them back to Jamie's car at Giovanni's, but because of the debris covered road, they had to go out of town on Rt. 7 and come in by way of Indian Creek. They went to Tammy and Tim Conley's house, where Jamie had been when the storm hit.

Novella got cleaned up and assessed her injuries. She knew she was cut but she found she had big splinters of wood in her legs from where the storm had dragged her through the fallen house. She refused to go to the hospital that night, knowing that there would be more seriously injured filling the ER. She could wait.

"I prayed," Novella said, "I prayed out loud and I prayed hard. I wasn't scared when it was happening, I knew the Lord had His hand on me. I prayed for my husband and daughter and my dad. We just buried my mother the year before and I did not want my husband and dad to find me gone now."

There are some outward scars, like the ones on her legs, and there are some inward ones. She can still feel the vibration of the tornado as it lifted her up.

Her car was gone and car were gone, but as Jamie said, "We have each other, and we'll get through it."

"Luck had nothing to do with it," Novella said. "I was in God's hands the whole time, and I know it."

Tornado Reflections

It is 6:30 p.m. Monday, May 28, as I write this. Memorial Day, a day of reflection. Which is fitting, since I haven't had much time to reflect in recent months – at least not on paper. Until now.

So much has happened since the evening of Friday, March 2, when the deadly tornado cut a destructive path through Morgan County and changed our community forever.

On the afternoon of March 2, I was wrapping up an article about the Feb. 29 tornado that damaged homes and businesses in the Mize, Greear and Malone communities. I always hated writing storm stories. From a newspaperwoman's perspective, covering the weather is always boring – even after a dramatic event like a twister.

It seemed another weather story was on the horizon, how-

What Immunizations Do You Need?

During the third trimester of her pregnancy, Laurie and her husband had their whooping cough vaccinations (Tdap) updated, and they advised both sets of grandparents-to-be to do the same since they would be spending a great deal of time with the new baby.

Incidence of pertussis or whooping cough has been steadily increasing since the 1980s, and babies under six months of age have virtually no protection from the disease and its consequences. About two thirds of children under one year of age who get whooping cough end up in the hospital; far too many die of a disease that can be prevented..

Unless you're old enough to remember the time when smallpox and polio destroyed lives, you probably don't spend much time worrying about your immunization schedule. You should. Getting your recommended shots at the appropriate intervals is the best protection against infectious diseases-not only for you but for everyone around you.

Diphtheria killed 10,000 children a year in the 1920s; if you don't worry about it much today, that's because the system is working. But when you fail or refuse to take part in the system, for whatever reason, you are weakening herd immunity and increasing the chance that infectious diseases could once again become a menace.

To help new parents, pediatricians are there to keep track of shots that are needed and given. The hepatitis B shot is given at birth and then a series of shots at regular intervals-2, 4, 6, 12 and 15 months-to protect against hepatitis A and B, diphtheria, tetanus, whooping cough, pneumococcal disease, haemophilus influenzae type b, polio, rotavirus measles, mumps, rubella, chickenpox and influenza.

Public schools require that immunizations be up to date by the time a child starts school. After that time, parents and individuals must take more responsibility.

CHILDREN AND ADOLESCENTS: Several new vaccines and some changes in the guidelines have been made for older children and adolescents.

Gardasil and Cervarix are vaccines against HPV (human papillomavirus), a cause of genital warts and a major risk factor for cervical cancer. The vaccines prevent four HPV types, two of which are strongly associated with cervical cancer in later life.

About 40 percent of sexually active females between ages 14 and 19 have been infected with HPV, and the infection can be passed on without actual intercourse and even with the use of condoms.

Parents, of course, are not approving of their children having sex early by having their children immunized. To be effective, however, the vaccination must be given before any sexual contact has occurred.

Initially, the vaccines were recommended for females starting at age 11 or 12 with catchup shots for those between ages 13 and 26. This year, the guidelines were expanded to include young males starting at age 11 or 12.

G u i d e - lines also recommend that adolescents be immunized with MCV4 to protect against meningitis. The initial shot should be given at age 11 or 12 with a booster at age 16. These are the ages when meningococcal disease rates are high.

YOUNG AND OLD ADULTS: Adults often assume incorrectly that the shots they received as children will protect them for life. Immunity can fade over time, however, and aging sometimes increases a person's vulnerability to infections.

An annual flu shot is now recommended for all adults except those who are pregnant or have high-risk medical conditions.

Studies indicate that about 99 percent of American adults age 40 and over have had chickenpox, and these persons should worry about shingles, a reactivation of the dormant virus. To protect against shingles, a single shot of herpes zoster vaccine is recommended for most adults age 60 and over. Approved in 2006, the shingles vaccine (Zostavax) reduced the risk of shingles by 51 percent, according to studies.

The pneumococcal vaccine, to protect against pneumonia, is also recommended for all persons age 60 and over as well as younger persons who smoke or have heart disease, lung disease, diabetes or a weakened immune system.

Women of child-bearing age with no evidence of immunity should be immunized against rubella or German measles. When a pregnant woman becomes infected, the effects to the fetus can include miscarriage, serious heart defects, mental retardation, loss of sight or hearing.

For centuries, infectious diseases were a major cause of death and suffering. Today, their influence on our lives has lessened considerably because of routine immunization. Do your part by keeping your immunizations up to date. Missy Leuenberger, APRN ever. As the Weather Channel app on my iPad began chiming with continuous weather updates for Morgan County, I groaned inwardly. A tornado watch was in effect. I pulled up Facebook on the tablet and updated my status:

"Working on my tornado recap for the LVC. Hopefully another cyclone won't blow through tonight and force me to change the whole thing on Monday morning."

Of course, I thought I was making a joke. I never imagined when I walked out the door with my paycheck at 3 p.m. that I'd not see the Licking Valley Courier office intact ever again.

As the old adage goes, "The rest is history."

I wasn't in town when the tornado hit, and my own neighborhood was spared. I went home after work and then walked next door to my parents' house, where my dad and I stood in the yard and listened to the storm pass over. We never saw the funnel cloud, but moments later we observed a string of emergency vehicles from the Ezel area headed toward West Liberty.

My uncle – who is also my next-door neighbor – called and informed us that reports of heavy damage were coming in from town. We walked to his house, where we heard the phrase "multiple fatalities" on the radio.

I immediately tried to touch base with my boss, Earl Kinner, and I became frantic when my calls wouldn't go through. I also began to worry about my other friends in downtown West Liberty, and prayed that I wouldn't eventually see their names on a casualty list.

With communications down in most parts of the county, we didn't realize the full extent of the devastation until a group of strangers pulled into my uncle's driveway and ran into the house to seek refuge from a second storm. With them was a young woman who was working in Dollar General when the tornado hit. The building had collapsed on her, but she managed to escape and walk through town until she found her family. She said repeatedly, "Town is gone. There's nothing left."

They never told us their names, and we never asked. But we soon discovered their story was true.

My parents and I, along with many other citizens, volunteered at the shelter set up at Morgan Central Elementary School. For the next few days, we cooked, cleaned and delivered supplies to various locations. But once I found out the Kinnners survived the tornado – though the LVC office and their homes hadn't – I wanted to start covering the disaster and getting information out to the public. I knew that was how I could best serve the community.

With no office to work from and no idea if we would even be able to go to press, I started a Licking Valley Courier Facebook page. I quickly gained a large following, and for several days I provided around-the-clock tornado updates from the La-Z-Boy recliner in my living room.

On March 7, I received word that there would be a special tornado edition of the LVC produced at the Mt. Sterling Advocate office. So I began writing the biggest, most emotionally taxing article of my career. This was one storm story I didn't complain about, however. I was so thankful that, by the grace of a merciful God, the newspaper had survived to record this chapter of Morgan County's history.

I was in Mt. Sterling when the March 8 edition of The Licking Valley Courier rolled off the Advocate press. It was the proudest moment of my life, without a doubt. Despite the disaster, the newspaper didn't miss a single edition. I believe we all have at least one illuminating instance of clarity when we know we are doing what God intended us to do. This was mine.

The newspaper isn't just a job to me. It's my life. I came to the LVC as a summer intern in 2003 when I was 19 years old. Since then, my work has shown me that West Liberty truly represents the very best of small town America. I have witnessed firsthand the unbreakable bond of community that has always defined Morgan County, and I know that abiding spirit will carry us through the hard times.

Someday, West Liberty will be beautiful again. We will recover and be stronger because of the tragedy we have endured. And The Licking Valley Courier will always be here to chronicle the journey and tell Morgan County's story.

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

May 28, 2012
Dear Mr. Kinner,
My thanks and appreciation to you for the article in the Courier this week, "This plan should become our Holy Grail". I see it made the front page! I would agree that it would take first place in any publication. Many of us have endeavored to put into words to describe our feelings after the terrible disaster we all experienced in March, but it seemed so inadequate. Yes we're about to put the heart-break we all felt into words that could be understood by everyone. It's an outstanding story for which I appreciate and will cherish for time to come.

CARD OF THANKS

To laugh often and love much; to win the respect of intelligent persons and the affection of children; to earn the approbation of honest people; to appreciate beauty; to find the best in others; to give of one's self; to leave the world a bit better, whether by a healthy child, a garden patch or a redeemed social condition; to have played and laughed with enthusiasm and sung with exultation; to know even one life has breathed easier because you have lived--this is to have succeeded.

Ralph Waldo Emerson

For us, the family of Dorothy Williams Perkins, our loss with her passing was tempered by the gracious and generous outpouring of support from all our many friends. From the food to the flowers to the expressions of condolence, we were strengthened by all those who carved time from their busy schedules to spend time--it made a difference. Just as Emerson's words certainly described Dorothy, to all who did so much to make these first days of her loss easier, please know that "we have breathed a bit easier" because of you. Our heartfelt gratitude to everyone who comforted us and may God's richest blessings be visited to all who extended their hands and hearts during this time.

memorial. I believe that should be changed. He went to war. He died of injuries sustained in a foreign country, in which he was stationed and fighting. He should be honored as a person who sacrificed his life in the war. He was a very good friend of mine, not my boyfriend, just a really good friend.

Dickie was in the Walter Reed Hospital when he first returned to the United States from Vietnam. Later, they transferred him to the Veterans hospital in Lexington, which is where I got to see him the first time. Later, they allowed him to come home for awhile, and I went to see him several times at his grandparent's home, where he resided before joining the military. He never lost his sense of humor. Even when he was unable to hold his own cigarette to smoke, he was still funny. He just went with the flow. I miss him laughter.

Michael Sowards was the other person I knew who lost his life in the Vietnam War. His name is on the memorial, as well as their website.

We had our Smith 100 year get together Sunday. Liz thought we might have toward 200 people. John said if we had 70, we'd be lucky. John won. I didn't do a head count, but I would think there might have been between 60 and 80 people there. I got to see some of my Gunnell cousins I hadn't seen in quite awhile. I meant to have a sign-in list so everyone could write where they came from, and told him, "She's not your sister!" It made me sad when he stopped calling me Sissy, but I understood.

Johnnie Ray was so good to share his toys with me. He had a board game called, Mr. Wiggly or Piggly Wiggly, or something. I thought it was so cool to have games that came out of boxes, with those colorful boards, neat little plastic parts and dice. Back then, all I had was checkers.

Mother didn't like cards in the house, and we really couldn't afford board games, so checkers was it! Whatever John had, he always shared with me. Even when we got bigger, he'd find me on the playground at school and ask me if I had enough spending money to get whatever I wanted out of the Sweet Shop. He knew I had a nickel a day spending money. He would hold a handful of change out and tell me to get some more change so I could have a pop AND a candy bar, or a pop AND popcorn. A nickel would only buy one thing. Who ever dreamed that a day would come where that same nickel candy bar would cost at least $.79 or $.89.

Well, until next time, God bless you and yours!

I remember Allen playing basketball for the Cannel City Raiders. Allen's family was always active with the school. I remember seeing a picture of Laverne Fallen, Allen's sister, in a CCS cheerleading uniform along with other young women who cheered for the Raiders. I will remember that Allen never seen a stranger and was always smiling. Mom and I attended the visitation for Allen at Potter's Funeral Home. We saw family, friends, and neighbors who came to pay their respects. I remember Curt Benton, God rest his soul, he always seen it necessary to go to the funeral home and pay respects to the one deceased and to the family. I guess the older I get, I see the need to do the same. Curt was doing what each of us need to do and that is care for our friends and family in times of sorrow.

Officials start push go legalize hemp as a cash crop in Ky.

Kentucky's agriculture commissioner and one of its U.S. senators have launched a push for the legalization of hemp as a fiber and oil product, a move that would require changes in state and federal laws — changes opposed by police who fight marijuana.

Commissioner James Comer and Sen. Rand Paul, both Republicans, held a press conference with Democratic state Sen. Joey Pendleton of Hopkinsville before the annual State-Fair Breakfast of the Kentucky Farm Bureau, which Comer said is now neutral on the idea after opposing it.

Paul said every other industrialized country allows the production of industrial hemp, and he wore a hemp shirt that he said he ordered online from Canada. Comer said that if Kentucky could be a pilot state for legalization, it would be a long-term advantage. The state was once a big hemp producer.

"The efforts by Comer and Paul face an uphill battle in both legislatures," writes Greg Hall, farm reporter for The Courier-Journal. "U.S. Rep. John Yarmuth, D-[Louisville], said it's unlikely that an industrial hemp bill would pass in a Congress that hasn't been eager to deal with other weighty issues. . . . Both of the agriculture committee chairmen in the Kentucky legislature said Thursday that they are willing to discuss the issue — but stopped short of saying they'd allow a vote."

Morgan Co. awarded more than $190,000 in Ag Development Funds

FRANKFORT, Ky., Aug. 23 — The Kentucky Agricultural Development Board, chaired by Gov. Steve Beshear, recently awarded $191,787 in Morgan County Agricultural Development Funds for a County Agricultural Investment Program (CAIP). The Morgan County Fiscal Court submitted a proposal to the Morgan County Agricultural Development Council and the Kentucky Agricultural Development Board to provide cost-share incentives to area farmers.

"I am committed to giving our farmers the tools and resources they need to remain competitive and continue Kentucky's strong farming tradition," said Gov. Beshear. "County Agricultural Investment Programs funded by the Kentucky Agricultural Development Board provide important on-farm investment opportunities."

CAIP is designed to provide farmers with incentives to allow them to improve and diversify their current production practices. CAIP combines what were previously known as county model cost-share programs into one, where each model program becomes an investment area.

"I appreciate the commitment of the fiscal court to our farm families in administering this program," said Sen. Robert Stivers, of Manchester. "From goat breeders to beekeepers to cattle ranchers, this grant will provide Morgan County farmers the opportunity to increase net farm income."

"The Kentucky Agricultural Development Fund was set up to help farmers improve their land and what they raise and grow," said Rep. John Will Stacy, of West Liberty. "I am happy to see our farm families in Morgan County have this opportunity and know these funds will be put to good use."

CAIP covers a wide variety of agricultural enterprises in its 11 investment areas, including commercial production of aquaculture; bees and honey; equine; forage; fruit; livestock; mushrooms; ornamental horticulture; poultry; rabbits; timber; and vegetables, as well as agritourism business development; commercial kitchen construction or conversion; energy efficiency/production; and on-farm water enhancement.

Residents of a given locality become so acquainted with all the routes around town that they pay no attention to the signs posted along the way. For the traveler, the signs are very important. A stranger looking for the way to get where he's going is watching for information. His eyes are open to pointers; he is searching for guidance.

Jesus said, "For everyone who asks receives; he who seeks finds...." (Matthew 7:8). Signs are everywhere for us to follow, we only have to look and ask.

We can receive spiritual direction in our lives, all we have to do is pay attention, look and ask questions. There are many signs that will point us in the right direction. Just look for your local house of worship, it is a place to ask for guidance and instruction. It is also a place to praise the One who guides us!

Fleming Co. teacher to have benefit in his honor June 9th

Kevin Cantrell

Prayers for Cantrell and Family, a Facebook page started by now alumni Donovan Spann, has been a continued vigil to Fleming County High School Industrial Technology and Manufacturing teacher, Leslie "Kevin" Cantrell, who was injured in an accident in February 2012.

Spann wanted a place where students, faculty members and community members alike could leave messages and prayers to let his beloved teacher know that Fleming County was pulling for a full recovery knowing that the road would be long.

Cantrell's accident came in the early morning hours where he was hit head on by a semi-truck on KY 519 in Morgan County. He was then treated and transported to Cabell Huntington Trauma Care in Huntington, West Virginia.

During the past four months there has been an outpouring of fundraisers held by FCHS and gifts of kind from other Fleming County residents to help the family offset the cost of travel by Cantrell's family, as well as for medical bills due to this injury.

Once again FCHS students and faculty members are asking the Fleming County community to raise funds at benefit to be held in his honor on Saturday, June 9, beginning at noon at Fleming County High School.

The benefit, lead by FCHS teachers Tony Rucker and Tamara Leadingham and FCHS Librarian Lynn Bernard, will have a live auction, a corn hold tournament, food, and a special singing all in an attempt to raise the much needed funds Cantrell and his family now need as Cantrell has entered the next phase of his treatment last week when he was admitted to Cardinal Hill for rehabilitation.

Cantrell, a Project Lead the Way teacher and advisor of FCHS' TSA chapter, was taken to Cabel Huntington Trauma Center, in Huntington, West Virginia, after he was injured with broken bones, swelling on the brain and other scrapes, cuts and bruises from the accident. As he has progressed by movement and breathing on his own he was taken to a step down unit in St. Mary's Hospital, also in Huntington. His parents and brother then transported him to the West Liberty hospital so that it would be easier for them to be close to Cantrell and help with his recovery.

Project Lead the Way asks for those Fleming County community members who want to help, but are unable to attend the benefit to know an account is set up in his honor to take donations at Community Trust Bank in Flemingsburg in the name of Project Lead the Way, L. Kevin Cantrell.

For any questions or for more information please call Tony Rucker at (606) 845-0450.

Broadway First Church Of God

John 8:31-32 Then said Jesus to those Jews which believed on him, If ye continue in my word, then are ye my disciples indeed; And ye shall know the truth, and the truth shall make you free. Are you living free from the bondage of sin through the truth in God's word?

The message came from Genesis 12:9-20 where Abram and Sarai journeyed into Egypt because of a famine and Abram told Sarai to tell the Egyptians that she was his sister even though she was his wife. According to Genesis 20:12 she was Abram half sister but in order to possibly save his life he had her to tell this half truth to deceive the Egyptians so they wouldn't kill him.

We live in a world that is full of deceit and half truths. Commercials on TV tell us if we buy their product, how much better our life will be. Politicians make promise they can't keep in order to get elected. Relationships get in trouble when half truths are told in order to deceive. None us like it when we are lied to; but what about the little lies we tell.

The phone rings and when the caller ask for your spouse, you tell them they are not there when they are or maybe you wife gets a new hair cut and ask what you think; how do you reply if you like it better the way she had it.

Deceit comes in many different forms and the first recording we have of it happening is when the serpent deceived Eve in eating from the tree of knowledge of good and evil. The devil appeals to our human senses when trying to deceive us just

Junction News

By Kathy Bolin

June 4--Greetings from the Junction.

Memorial Day started out like we were going to have a hot summer, but now the weather has changed on us. It has cooled down and the last few days we have gotten some much needed rain. I have yet to see any tobacco planted. Early farmers usually have their crop in the ground by now.

On Memorial Day Cortis and Edwina Jenkins, of Lower Sandlick, had a pig roast. I'm told it was not as creative as the one in 2007 where the men all wore white shirts with a pig on the back, and women were in hoop skirts, but there was plenty of food, good times, and bluegrass. Lynn Burt did plenty of clogging and a two-step with Cortis. Clyde Jenkins, in his usual straw hat, played guitar never saw it laid down the whole day. Then toward evening the younger generation came forward and they karoke long into the night. It was a great time.

On Saturday, May 30, Josh Roseberry and Ashley Applegate were united in marriage in an outdoor ceremony performed any other par three hole no less than 135 feet. Each participant will also receive a coupon for a free golf club. Other prizes will be awarded for the longest putt, longest drive, and closest to the hole on certain numbered holes. The best team score will also be rewarded.

The golfers will assemble at 8 a.m. to draw for a place on a team and the teams will tee-off at 8:30. The fee per player is $60. A free lunch will be served and prizes awarded at the shelter when players complete the course.

as he did Eve. Have you ever believed a lie to find out later that is what it was. The scripture says "be not deceived, God is not mocked, for whatsoever a man soweth that shall he also reap. If we sow to the flesh we will reap corruption, but if we sow to the spirit we will reap life ever lasting.

I believe the worst form of deceit is when we deceive ourselves. There are many who may believe that they are going to heaven based on the good things they do or maybe because they attend church regularly or the amount of money they give to the church or even the things they do around the church. The bible tells us we must be born again. I receive many different responses from people if I ask them if they are a Christian and some may say yes, but five minutes later their heart reveals they are not by their actions or words they say. So are you a Christian or has the devil deceive you into believing that you are? Scripture tells us the devil will try to deceive the very elect. Not every one that says Lord, Lord shall enter in but he that doeth the will of my Father. Make your calling and election sure. Come worship with us, we preach about things like this.

Our worship times are: Sunday school at 10:00, morning worship at 11:00, Sunday evening service at 6:00, and Wednesday evening service at 6:00. Give us a try if you don't have a home church, we will make you feel welcomed. To contact us for prayer requests or comments e-mail karleecelam@hotmail.com or call 743-4736, we'll be glad to hear from you. Until next week may the Lord bless you is our prayer.

May 9, 2012, Trinity Purvis, 8 lbs., 4 ozs. and 21 inches was born to the proud parents of Jeremy and Kayla Pervis, of Straight Creek. Congratulations.

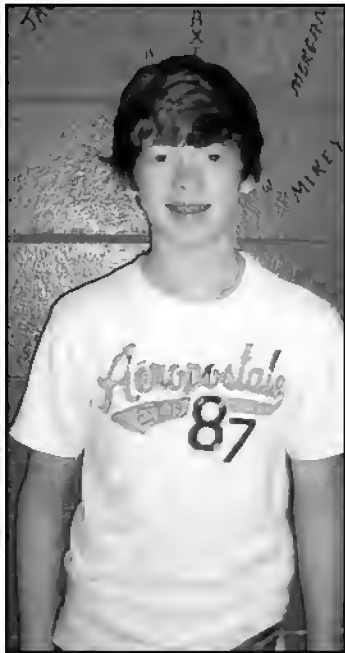

Couple of sad deaths in our community. Kayla Poe passed away unexpectedly over Memorial Day weekend. Kayla just graduated from high school. I personally had been with Kayla many years in the school system. She was a delightful girl. These kids when you are with them over the years almost seem like their your own. My heart goes out to her family and friends.

Another sad death was this past weekend of Latasia Osborne, 22, who was killed this weekend in an ATV accident. Arrangements were incomplete. Condolences to her friends and family.

72 graduate after 6 disasters, including West Liberty tornado, 10 mos. service

VICKSBURG, Miss.—After 97,732 hours of service, 72 AmeriCorps National Civilian Community Corps (NCCC) members recently graduated from the Southern Region campus in Vicksburg, Miss.

In 10 months, these Corps Members from all over the country completed their call to serve their nation through community service. They responded to six disasters (including the tornado that destroyed West Liberty, Ky., on March 2), worked on 51 projects with 43 nonprofits in 11 Southeastern states. Each Corps Member led an average of 127 volunteers. Their expertise in leading volunteers increased the capacity of nonprofits to do more in their communities.

This class of eight Team Leaders and 64 Corps Members was deployed to six disasters including Hurricane Irene, Tropical Storm Lee, and a series of tornado outbreaks in the months of January and February of 2012. Teams quickly deployed to areas across the region to support organizations including United Methodist Committee on Relief, FEMA, American Red Cross, Pamlico County Emergency Management, and Walker County VOAD in Disaster Relief efforts across the region and in New York. The teams led volunteers in debris clean-up efforts, set-up and managed Volunteers Reception Centers, fed disaster victims, conducted damage assessments, and performed other tasks as needed.

Delta 1 arrived in West Liberty, Ky., a week after the tornado to manage the Volunteer Reception Center. The team managed all aspects of the VRC, including: client intake, volunteer management, and damage assessments. They coordinated 1,705 volunteers and managed almost 400 assignments.

River 3 served with Habitat for Humanity of Greater Miami to aid in the coordination and management of volunteers during their two week Blitz Build and their alternative spring break program, Collegiate Challenge. The team supported in the construction of 18 homes and coordinated 2,275 volunteers.

After graduation in May, NCCC members returned to their homes, colleges, law schools and other service programs in 30 states.

NCCC is accepting applications through October 1, at www.americorps.gov/nccc. NCCC is administered by a federal agency, the Corporation for National and Community Service.

West Liberty Store Reopens 3 Months After Devastating Tornado

West Liberty – The Primitive Homestead, a charming primitive and country décor store will reopen for business on Monday, June 4, 2012 at 10:00 am. Three months ago, a deadly tornado swept through a small town destroying stores, shattering churches, ravaging many homes and devastating citizens. Dorcas Burton, owner of Primitive Homestead, and her daughter were trapped in the store van in front of the store, while the tornado went over Main Street. This Monday, the Primitive homestead will be open for business in a new location.

The lesson taught through this is to be thankful for everything that you have -- your family, your job, for everything -- because life can change in an instant. I’m happy to be back [West Liberty], said Burton.

The Primitive Homestead is open Monday – Friday 10 AM – 6 PM and Saturday 10 AM – 2 PM in their new location off of HWY 460 on Elam Lane (1.3 miles from McDonald’s on 460 West...cross the little bridge) just outside city limits at Greear. The store carries a variety of country, primitive and antiques items from primitive dolls, country style pottery, furniture, wreath stands, candles or any other primitive home decor products for both inside and outside the home or office. The Primitive Homestead can also take special orders for those special occasions call (606) 743-3810.

With many helpful volunteers and many countless work hours, the small town of West Liberty will be restored. “We want to see Dorcas and all our other businesses stay in Morgan County. I promise the people, the businesses owners of West Liberty that Mayor Rupe and I will do everything possible to restore our city,” said Judge – Executive Tim Conley. People have been so good to help our community, and I ask that we support our returning businesses.”

The Primitive Homestead, owned and operated by Dorcas Burton, started business in March of 2003 on Main Street in West Liberty. The store will reopen in a new location off of Highway 460 on Elam Lane on Monday, June 4. A grand opening is being planned for mid – June. City council cuts spending on 2012-2013 budget

By Miranda M. Cantrell

The West Liberty City Council during a special May 30 meeting heard the first readings of several agenda items, including the 2012-2013 budget ordinance.

City Clerk Sally Barker said that council members implemented a 10 percent spending decrease across the board.

“The council wanted to cut out unnecessary spending,” Barker said. “They budgeted in anticipation of possible shortfalls, but hopefully there won't be any.”

The council also approved the first readings of two zoning change requests from residential to business in regard to the John W. Clark service station property at 155 Prestonsburg St., and the Rodney Trimble property at 233 Riverside Dr.

Policy and procedure amendments were approved for the following positions:

- The code enforcement officer position to which Assistant Fire Chief Jamie Phipps was recently appointed.

- The gas supervisor position currently held by Jeremy Lewis.

- The gas maintenance position currently held by David Elliott.

Barker also noted that the new city firehouse located on Index hill will open later this month, while Mayor Jim Rupe's staff and police department members will move back into the municipal building on Main Street in the coming weeks.

The West Liberty City Council meets 5 p.m. the fourth Monday of each month at MSU at West Liberty until further notice.

Minor injuries sustained in two wrecks Tuesday

State Police from the Morehead Post investigated two separate vehicle accidents Tuesday morning, June 5, in Morgan County.

At 9:15 a.m., A vehicle driven by Tiffany Roberts of Ezel ran off Bolin Branch Road when a cat in the vehicle attacked a passenger. Ms. Roberts lost control of the vehicle when she attempted to pull the cat away from the passenger, Shirley Parton, of West Liberty. The vehicle left the roadway and overturned over an embankment.

Both Roberts, 24, and Parton, 64, were transported to Morgan County ARH Hospital with minor injuries.

At 11:06 a.m., State Police responded to a single vehicle accident on U.S. 460 at Mize, where Karen Gilliam, 51, of West Liberty suffered minor injuries when her 2001 Buick dropped off the shoulder of the road and she over corrected, causing her to lose control. The car traveled back across the roadway and struck a fence.

Ms. Gilliam was transported to Morgan County ARH Hospital with minor injuries.

Both accidents remain under investigation.

Morgan students learned with PRIDE in 2011-2012

SOMERSET, KY — Nature came to life in classrooms in southern and eastern Kentucky — including Morgan County — during the past school year, thanks to the PRIDE Environmental Education Outreach Program.

The program sent 15 environmental education liaisons into schools in 22 counties, reaching a total of 36,825 students between September 2011 and May 2012.

In Morgan County, liaison Linda Rose worked with 4,055 students in grades K-8.

"Linda continued to work in the schools after the spring tornadoes that ravished the schools and communities, and she helped many survivors with shelter and supplies," said PRIDE's Tammie Wilson.

Like all liaisons, Rose's goal was to help students prepare for state science tests and develop life-long environmental stewardship skills.

Liaisons taught lessons and led hands-on activities that covered a span of environmental topics including energy, botany, ecosystems, wildlife concepts, solid waste and water quality. They partnered with teachers to complement their classroom instruction. They also worked with PRIDE Clubs, which explore environmental issues and perform community service.

"Students really turn on when PRIDE liaisons lead hands-on activities that bring to life lessons they've been learning in class," Wilson said. "Environmental education is a great tool for practicing a variety of skills, from math to problem-solving."

"Teacher evaluations of the liaisons were excellent and showed great interest in continuing the program," Wilson said. "I want to thank our liaisons, who are so creative and enthusiastic. They enjoy interacting with students and teaming with teachers."

"We are grateful to the local governments, school boards, utility companies and others who partnered with us to bring the program to their counties, as well as the superintendents, principals and teachers who welcomed PRIDE into their schools this year," Wilson added. "You are to be commended for investing in your students and our environment."

The Morgan County Fiscal Court and Morgan County Conservation District partnered to enroll the school district in the program for the 2011-2012 school year.

PRIDE offers the Environmental Education Outreach Program in 38 counties of southern and eastern Kentucky. In each county, local leaders pay a fee, based on student population, to enroll their schools.

PRIDE is a nonprofit organization that promotes "Personal Responsibility In a Desirable Environment" in southern and eastern Kentucky. PRIDE works with communities to improve water quality, clean up solid waste problems and increase environmental awareness. PRIDE was founded in 1997 by Congressman Hal Rogers (KY-5) and the late James Bickford, former Kentucky Secretary of Environmental Protection.

Morgan Co. Little League Baseball: Week 5

Week 5 got started on Monday, May 28, with the Blue Jays on the road to play the Reds. The Reds got a quality start from twelve year old pitcher, Blake Evans, only giving up one run on four hits, striking out 9, and not surrendering a walk. Eleven year old Jonathan Nickell scored the Blue Jays only run on a Richie Lane double in the first inning. The Reds offense was truly a team effort as each player for the Reds scored at least one run in the game. Evans, Michael Prater, and Matt Hylton combined for five hits and seven runs for the Reds as they won 14-1 in four innings.

Game two had the Marlins hosting the Indians. If you like offense, this was the game for you, as the two teams combined for 35 runs on 21 hits. It didn't take long for the bats to heat up as the Indians struck first by posting six runs in the top half of the first. The Marlins bounced right back as eleven year old Colt Bowman led off the bottom of the first with an inside the park homerun which started an eight run inning for the Marlins. The Indians offense was led by eleven year olds, Jordan Howell and Braden Gullett, with Howell going 3 for 5 and Gullett going 3 for 4, each scoring three runs. Ten year old Derek Wireman had a productive day at the plate, scoring four runs on two hits. The Marlins were led by eleven year olds Tanner Smith and Dylan Carpenter, as Smith went 4 for 5 and Carpenter going 3 for 4, each scoring three runs. In the top of the sixth, the Indians took a 17-16 lead and the game would come down to which team batted last, as Tanner Smith came to the plate in the bottom of the sixth with two outs and the bases full of Marlins. With a 1-2 count, Smith hit the ball that seemed to have eyes as it ball dropped in right center field scoring Connor Gilliam and Jeremy Keeton for an 18-17 win for the Marlins.

11 year old Payton Hampton of the Nationals.

12 year old Ridge Jones of the Indians rounds second.

Minor League and T-ball would be unable to play on Tuesday due to rainy weather.

Game one on Wednesday would see the Indians visiting the Blue Jays. The Blue Jays would start ten year old Chandeler Trusty and the Indians went with eleven year old Cameron Bush. The Indians started with a six run first inning and never let up as Braden Gullett led the offense going 3 for 3 with a walk, Bush and Derek Wireman combined for five runs on five hits. Twelve year old Ridge Jones had the biggest hit of the game, going yard in the fourth inning, for his second homerun of the season. Bush held the Blue Jays in check, allowing only four hits, striking out 8, and allowed one walk. Jonathan Nickell and Bradley Vest each doubled as Nickell and Byron Holbrook scored the only two runs for the Blue Jays. The Indians went on to win 15-2 in four innings.

Game two had eleven year old Ethan Lewis for the Nationals going against eleven year old Kyle Stacy and the Marlins. Stacy would control the bats of the Nationals, allowing one run on three hits and striking out seven, with three walks. Caleb Brown scored the only run for the Nationals as Aiden Morgan went 1 for 1 with a single in the second inning. Stacy also did his part at the plate going 2 for 3, scoring three runs for the Marlins. Tanner Smith, Dylan Carpenter, and Tre Lykins combines for four hits and nine runs to help the Marlins to an 18-1 win.

Minor League got started on Thursday with two good games. In game one the Angels fell to the Braves 9-6. The Red Sox outlasted the Rockies in a high scoring affair 20-17 in game two.

After week 5, first place still belongs to the Red Sox with record of 9-1. The Braves are in second place with a 7-3 record. The Rockies are six games out in third place with a record of 3-7. Fourth place belongs to the Angels with 1-9 record.

All four teams in T-ball played on Thursday as the A's hosted the Tigers and Cubs traveled to battle the Mets. All teams in t-ball are still undefeated.

Little League ended the week on Friday with nine and ten year olds taking to the mound for each team. In game one the Reds started ten year old Lyndsey Adkins as they hosted the Marlins with nine year old Connor Gilliam getting the start. Marlins catcher Dylan Carpenter batted 2 for 2, scoring the team's only run of the game. The Reds offense was led by nine year old Blake Jenkins going 2 for 2 with two singles. Eight different players crossed the plate for the Reds as they get an 11-1 victory in four innings.

The Indians were on the road again taking on the Nationals. Nine year old Allen Dulen got the start for the Nationals and hard throwing, ten year old Derek Wireman started for the Indians. The Nationals offense was led by twelve year old Cole Potter and nine year Jarrod Potter, each going 1 for 1 and combining for three runs. The Indians had a big first inning with the first six batters crossing the plate. The Indians offense was clicking on all cylinders, led by eleven year old Cameron Bush, batting 4 for 4, scoring four runs with an inside the park homerun, the most exciting play in baseball. Jordan Howell went 3 for 3, also scoring four runs. Eleven year old Braden Gullett also had a three hit game with two singles and a double. Wireman allowed only two hits while striking out four as the Indians took game two 14-4 in four innings.

At the end of week five, the Reds are still atop the standings with a record of 11-2. Three games back in second place are the Marlins with an 8-5 record. The 7-5 Blue Jays are in third place, just three and a half games back. The Indians are in fourth place with a record of 5-8. Fifth place belongs to the Nationals with a 1-12 record.

We would like to thank everyone that came out to watch the movie on Saturday and to all the coaches and parents that worked to make it a success. Remember to come out and support your local Little League. We are happy to report that Little League Girls Softball has gotten started, so look for results in next week's edition. Christian Social Services joins

"AmpleHarvest.org"

MOREHEAD, Ky.--Christian Social Services, Inc. in Morehead has joined "AmpleHarvest.org." This is a nationwide effort to diminish hunger, improve nutrition and help the environment in America by educating, encouraging and enabling millions of gardeners to easily find a local food pantry eager for their excess garden bounty.

Christian Social Services is asking farmers to plant an extra row in their gardens or donate extra produce (fruits and vegetables) to help feed families in our community. Currently 5,129 food pantries across the nation are registered to receive a sustainable and recurring supply of freshly harvested, locally grown food. Christian Social Services asks local farmers and gardeners to consider sharing their products with Christian Social Services. They will distribute these items through their Food Pantry to people who are truly in need.

The needs of the families served by Christian Social Services are great. The current economy has put a strain on the lives of people in our community. Many struggle to put food on the table, and often the food does not include fresh fruits and vegetables.

"AmpleHarvest.org." is a nation-wide network. Gardeners overwhelmed by a bountiful harvest can go the website to find local pantries. After going to the Find a Pantry page, they simply enter their home address or zip code and the number of miles they are willing to travel to a pantry. "AmpleHarvest.org" displays listing of food pantries, sorted by distance along with a Google map.

For more information about the Food Pantry at Christian Social Services and how to be part of the "AmpleHarvest.org" program, contact Kay Stiner, Executive Director, at (606) 784-5329 or come by the center at 1446 E. Main Street, in Morehead.

Jamie Ferguson wins second late model feature of season

Henry Lawson finishes fifth in his first-ever late model race

By Miranda M. Cantrell
Morgan County's Jamie Ferguson collected his second checkered flag of the racing season on Saturday, June 2, at 191 Speedway in Hazel Green, where he bested Brandon Fouts in a hotly-contested late model feature.

Fouts (#81) tailed Ferguson (#13) for several laps before fading to a second place finish in the main event, from which favorite Derek Fisher (#38), of Olympia, was notably absent due to an engine failure during the hot lap session.

The race also marked the late model debut of former stock four-cylinder competitor Henry Lawson (#L13), of West Liberty, who logged a fifth-place finish in the feature.

Keith "Jabber" Gray (#4) beat Scott Lemaster (#11), of Salyersville, in the open wheel modified feature, which saw several spinouts of top competitors including James Grigsby (#42) and Jeremy Crisp (#11XX).

Reggie Ritchie (#4), of Hazard, claimed his third consecutive bomber feature win as runner-up Brandon Banks (#11), of Campton, fell short in his efforts to overtake Ritchie.

Bomber regular Robert Ellis (#00) did not compete in Saturday's event, following his removal from the track after he was charged with two cautions the previous week.

Other feature winners included Tony Fletcher (#72), modified four-cylinder; Nathan Martin (#3N), stock four-cylinder #1; and Norvel Collinsworth (#21), stock four-cylinder #2.

Students should be smart when it comes to managing their credit, according to the Kentucky Higher Education Assistance Authority (KHEAA).

Once you start paying bills, you start building a credit score. If you have a history of paying bills late, it will be reported to credit ratings agencies and affect the interest rate you pay on credit cards and loans. It may also affect how much you pay for insurance and whether you are approved for renting an apartment.

A credit score is based on your payment history. Credit scores are used by lenders to help determine if applicants qualify for a credit card, loan, insurance or other services. Most credit scores estimate the risk a company incurs by lending money or providing a person with a service--specifically, the likelihood that the person will make payments on time in the next two to three years. Generally, the higher your credit score, the less risk you represent.

Some people think you need a credit card to build a credit score. But if you open your utility accounts in your name instead of your parent's name, you can work toward building a credit score in six months.

A late or missed payment stays on your credit report for seven years, even if the creditor has been paid in full.
